

Our Commitment to Sustainability at Chester's Dead Good Ghost Tour

We're not just passionate about sharing the spine-chilling stories of our city's past—we're also dedicated to preserving its future. Sustainability is at the heart of what we do, and we strive to ensure that our tours leave a minimal impact on the environment while maximizing the positive impact on our community.

Eco-Friendly Practices

Our tours are designed with sustainability in mind. We operate entirely on foot, reducing carbon emissions and encouraging our guests to experience the beauty of Chester in an environmentally friendly way. By choosing walking tours over other modes of transport, we're helping to decrease air pollution and contribute to a cleaner, healthier environment for everyone.

Supporting Local and Sustainable Businesses

We're proud to collaborate with local businesses that share our commitment to sustainability. Whether it's working with eco-conscious suppliers for our promotional materials or partnering with local eateries that prioritize organic, locally sourced ingredients, we ensure that our tour supports the green economy of Chester.

Responsible Storytelling

Our commitment to sustainability extends to the stories we tell. We strive to share not only the ghostly legends of Chester but also the rich history of the city's connection to the environment. Our narratives highlight how the natural world has always been a part of Chester's identity.

Zero-Waste Initiatives

We aim to make our tours as close to zero-waste as possible. Any materials we use during the tours, such as brochures or handouts, are printed on recycled paper using eco-friendly inks. We also encourage digital ticketing and communication to reduce paper waste. Plus, our team is committed to leaving no trace—ensuring that our tours don't contribute to litter or waste in Chester's beautiful streets.

Continuous Improvement

Sustainability is a journey, and we're always looking for new ways to improve our practices. We actively seek feedback from our guests and partners to help us identify areas where we can be even more eco-friendly. Our commitment to sustainability is ongoing, and we're excited to evolve and grow alongside our community.

At Chester's Dead Good Ghost Tour, we believe that honouring the past means protecting the future. We invite you to join us on a journey through Chester's haunted history, knowing that together, we're taking steps toward a more sustainable tomorrow.
